For the first time since 2020, L.A.'s art-fair scene is set to flourish once again with the return of Frieze Los Angeles this February. Plus, running concurrently, the Felix art fair is coming back at full capacity (after a smaller outing last summer) and a host of gallery and museum shows are set to open in the city, which

In a recently opened Los Angeles exhibition space inside a midcentury house (8260 Marmont Ln.), Albertz Benda and Friedman Benda present The Endless Summer, a group show works by Chris Schanck, Daniel Arsham and other artists from the galleries' rosters.
